Management Report

28/02/2020

In February, the coronavirus (COVID-19) outbreak replaced trade as the main focus for the markets. Fears of near-term negative effects on Chinese and global growth, together with the expectation that central banks around the globe will provide further monetary policy support, sent core government bond yields lower throughout the month. By the end of the month, the US 10-year Treasury yield stood at a new all-time low of 1.1%, 2.1% points below the recent peak in October 2018.

In the first couple of weeks of February, equity markets shrugged off concerns about the outbreak, supported by a better-than-expected US Q4 earnings season, improving business surveys for January, and the expectation that negative effects of the coronavirus would be temporary and localized. However, the increase in cases outside China led to a sharp selloff towards the end of the month.

In this environment, the BL-American Smaller Companies Fund (retail share class capitalization net of fees in USD) outperformed its Benchmark, the MSCI US Small + Mid Cap NR USD Index, by 2,63%. In absolute terms, the fund showed a negative performance of 6,24%.

During the month, we initiated a position in Albany International. The company is an emerging aerospace composite company with high growth, supported by the cash cow and industry-leading paper machine clothing business. Albany has been the leader in woven fabrics (30% market share and bigger than the next 5 combined) supporting machine clothing belts in the paper industry for over 100 years and has built a superior knowledge base of weaving technology, which it is now transferring to the composites industry in 3D woven composites after nearly 20 years of development effort. The company has 100% market share for the CFM LEAP engine (JV between GE and Safran) fan blades and cases with aerospace composite end market sales finishing 2019 at 43% of total Albany's sales up from just 14% in 2015. Moreover, we see Albany's composite market share growing further as 3D woven composites matures and positions the company to pursue new airframe applications and additional growth in engines with CFM. Using lighter carbon fiber parts leads to big cost savings for airlines, due to fuel efficiency gains. As the aerospace segment becomes the majority of the business (growing at 20% organic) and is a monopoly provider without competition, the multiple will move higher over time to reflect this. The stock has de-rated due to concerns about 737 MAX production, and related implications for growth. This gave us a good entry point to build a position in this unique emerging asset. We believe it's just a question of time Boeing's production will ramp up again.

The top 5 contributors in the month were Domino's Pizza, SiteOne Landscape, Jack Henry, Clorox and IPG Photonics. The top 5 detractors were Manhattan Associates, Cognex, Checkpoint Software, Sensient Technologies, and Waters.

Investment Approach

Investment Principles

Avoid Losses

Avoiding a big loss on an investment is more important than realising extraordinary gain.

Focus on Quality

We seek companies enjoying a sustainable competitive advantage.

Valuation: the concept of margin of safety

The price paid for an investment determines its potential return.

Master Investment Risks

Risks arise when the parameters of an investment are not properly understood.

Active Management

The market reference is solely used for the principle of performance measurement. The portfolio structure may deviate from that of its reference index.

Equity Investment Approach: Business-Like Investing

Rationale

We consider an equity investment as a long-term participation in a quality business. As a consequence, we need to make sure that the companies we invest in are able to compete successfully in their line of business, ensuring high levels of profitability and strong free cash-flow generation.

Quality

In the first step of our investment process, we perform an in-depth review of the targeted company's business model in order to identify its sustainable competitive advantage. A competitive advantage makes it stand out and creates entry barriers for competitors.

In the second step we analyse whether the competitive advantage translates into recurrent free cash flow. We put a special emphasis on the analysis of the maintenance capex requirements of the targeted companies to make sure that the cash flow generated is not absorbed by investment needs to sustain the company's current business operations.

In the third step, we focus on the strength of the management team and analyse how the targeted company uses its capital and manages its balance sheet. Company management has to consider investment in current business activities, development of new activities, takeovers, dividend payments, stock buybacks or debt repayments.

Only companies that meet our investment criteria are considered for inclusion in our portfolios. This may lead to significant deviations from the relevant market index.

Valuation

Even investments in quality companies may result in significant capital losses if the price paid for the investment is too high. To avoid this pitfall, we determine a fair value for each targeted company prior to investing. This fair value is based on the company's normalised free cash flow and serves as reference point for our buy and sell discipline.

Portfolio characteristics

BL-American Smaller Companies portfolio consists of 40 to 70 small- and mid-sized companies (maximum market cap USD 20bn) that have been selected on the basis of the quality of their fundamentals and their valuation.

The structure of the fund's market reference index does not play any role in the portfolio's construction: the portfolio structure is the outcome of the addition of individual bottom-up investment opportunities. The weight given to each security in the portfolio is a function of its valuation level, stock liquidity and our degree of conviction in the investment thesis.

Owing to our quality investment style, the fund's sector allocation is geared towards consumer discretionary, consumer staples, health care, industrials, technology and materials sectors. Conversely, in sectors like financials, utilities or telecoms, we find few - if any - companies that meet our investment criteria.

BL-American Smaller Companies is a pure equity fund: the fund manager does not time the market and the cash level within the portfolio is maintained at a minimum.
